

~ How Bird got his wings

Long ago, before birds could fly, there was... a bird. This bird's name was Olof. Olof was a very fast runner and had many friends.

One day Olof was boasting about his ability to run faster than the others. Olof's friends got jealous and went to the Mystical Naranya and told him of what Olof was doing. Just because they were jealous, they still did not want to hurt their friend. Mystical Naranya came up with an idea to give Olof a different purpose rather than run. The next day when the sun rose, Mystical Naranya went to Olof and flattened his arms into big paddle arms and shortened his legs just a little. When Olof woke up he looked at his arms and legs and shrieked. When Olof tried to run all he did was trip over himself. Olof finally gave up and threw his arms to the ground in frustration, and then all that happened is Olof was pushed off the ground by what seemed to be a mysterious force. Olof threw his arms down to see what would happen and then Olof went up in the air, but this time higher. When Olof was in the air he repeatedly threw his arms up and down until he was so high, he could see all of his friends below him. This time instead of shrieking Olof laughed so loud, that all his friends looked up to see what was making that noise (laughter). When the animals looked up in surprise, but this time they cheered for Olof instead of get jealous.

How Olof got his wings.
The End.
